

♥ A Soul Message to Lightworkers ♥♥

You have felt and heard the call. You are restless. Inspired. Reaching up and out. Welcome!

You are meant to be here now! This is where you belong. There is a place uniquely for you in this world. You belong here. You are engaging in this incredible experience of Life because you are worthy. You are precious and valuable. Your spiritual family here on earth is calling to you now. Join your kindred souls, give and receive love freely, share your talents and resources here on earth, for your own fulfilment brings healing for all!

You are opening to Life, some of you having lived on this planet for many years are only just being born, now incarnating your Soul fully into your earthly body. As this happens, you are becoming part of a new consciousness emerging on Earth at this time. This is the consciousness of inclusion, of Love. You are a co-creator of this new era of love, healing and consciousness on our planet. You matter. Your presence, your thoughts, your feelings make a difference to us all.

The time, YOUR time, is now. Don't hold yourself back. Deliver your message.

Love is all things. It is boldness and action, gentleness and peace. Remember this as you build your lighthouse, the space inside of you where your inner radiance can burn with divine passion, piercing through any darkness, offering hope and direction to many who are lost. This is your Soul, this is your Heart.

From this space of quiet spiritual intensity and passion, we create. What you seek to manifest through the Soul, that which is healing, abundant, empowering and joyful, comes through clear intent and the act of allowing. None of us has to push to river to make it flow.

The Soul is the natural healing, self-organising principle that is the inner teacher, the inner guide, your constant well of love, creativity, strength, peace and feeling and it comes alive to you when you open your mind and body to divine love, you become able to surf the waves of life, riding the currents, rather than attempting to drive your life by will power or force.

When the power of your will goes into alignment, that state that we attain through inner work that prepares and enables us to be strong enough to allow for Life flow through us, for us to be an instrument of consciousness – we are living into the new way. The old way is struggling to swim against current, using your will to attempt to mould the flow rather than becoming an expression of it. It wastes energy. It is based on distrust. It is not of the Soul.

Yet when our energy goes into aligning ourselves, aligning with divine flow, rather than trying to force life, soulful manifestation occurs effortlessly, in the perfect way and at the perfect time.

You know the Divine lives, breathes and dances through you. You know that when you feed yourself well, you are feeding the Divine; when you give your body and mind the rest and the play that they require, you are communing with the Goddess; when you take the quiet solitude you need to restore your sense of self and rekindle your inner light, you are reconnecting with God and remembering who you really are, in truth!

Know that it is safe for you to learn who you are (and know that such a journey will not lead you confirm the terrible lies you have been fed of your selfishness, unworthiness and inadequacy). You are a divine being and a child of the universe. You deserve love and acceptance.

It is from this place of gentle self-acceptance that you can you begin to heal behaviours that don't reflect your magnificence, that undermine your self-love and self-esteem, and keep you from sharing your light with strength and joy.

Thankfully the brilliance that you are allows you to unlearn such old ways of being and grow into new ways that are more respectful and reflective of your essence. This growth can be fun and liberating, sometimes it will be arduous, but there is a new paradigm that is becoming available for the first time on our planet at this critical point of transition and that is the instantaneous shift. It is healing that can occur in a moment. And stay with us.

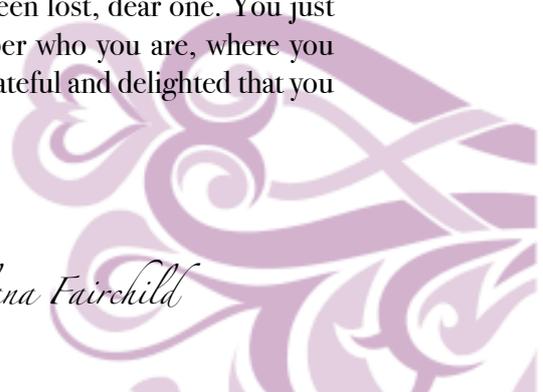

It is through the inspirational love and affirmation of self that we receive from other lightworkers that we become able to access this divine remembrance of our spiritual perfection, which is healing.

So reach for us now. Remember that you are loved beyond measure. We lightworkers are here for you. You are never alone! Reach out to us and find your spiritual family – know that we are looking for you too!

The spiritual assignment for many lightworkers is to assist each other in knowing ourselves and this can happen through connecting with other lightworkers, through connecting with your spiritual family. Once you know your own vibration in truth, it is easy to recognise kindred vibrations in others. You will recognise your spiritual family, your soul groups here on earth and your spiritual guidance which is your family in the spiritual worlds.

You have so many beings that you belong to! You have never been lost, dear one. You just need to remember. Lightworkers are here to help you remember who you are, where you belong (which is right here and now) and to realise that we are grateful and delighted that you are on this planet.

And now its time for you to partake of that support, get the help that you need and the support and affirmation that you deserve, so that your light can shine in all its unique beauty and boldness!

Every being benefits from your spiritual growth and expression - whether it is demonstrated through your art, your music, your writing, your healing work, the way you parent, the way you love, what you talk about with your friends, or the attitude you hold in your workplace ...

You are listening to this message now as a lightworker, no matter how much that is a part of your conscious identity. You are here to help our planet awaken simply by being you. That is your task - not allowing anyone or anything to hold you back from living your truth. And your truth is beautiful.

You know that you can experience heaven on earth. You have had so many lifetimes of spiritual experience that you just KNOW in your own heart that Life can be an expression of Love on this planet.

You are ready to be free from fear, self-doubt and inner suffering, to feel peace, acceptance and maximise the expression of your talents and potential in the physical world for the benefit of humanity because you understand that your own growth feeds the wellbeing of the planet. You know that the world isn't as it could be at present and you don't want to collapse under its dysfunctional spell due to isolation, loneliness, feelings of being weird or different, rejected, a black sheep or simply not understood or accepted.

You are replenished by quiet solitude and you understand your natural need for conscious, energising community. You are ready to love your uniqueness and feel supported, acknowledged and encouraged and celebrated on your Path and successful in your life. You have no desire to energetically support dysfunctional and diminishing relationships or situations in your life, you are ready to share yourself with others through healthy, supportive and energising relationships.

You are the new spiritual generation – you cut across all demographics, socio-economic backgrounds, races, cultures and religious beliefs. Your inspirational generation is defined and united through consciousness. You are the founding fathers and mothers of new consciousness and new life on earth. You are the builders of new life on Earth.

Your values are based on spiritual growth and evolving human consciousness into loving awareness of true community on this planet. You are creating and living into a family of light. You understand the true nature of power, that it is spiritual in nature, based in love and leads to freedom. You eschew false notions of power that are tainted with fear, domination and lead to karmic enslavement to unresolved issues of personal worth.

You find your way on this planet through being true to your own inner values, your trust in the ultimate workings of the Universe for good, and you live holographically – with awareness that your even your smallest act of conscious love has positive repercussions for all of humanity.

In staying true to your spiritual values, you gently nurture them into concrete expression in your life and you effortlessly inspire and bring understanding of these values to others.

In this way, you are the new gardeners of Life on earth, nourishing the healthy growth of consciousness. You are the new architects, the new designers and artists, you are in fact the next wave of consciousness to allow for Life as Love rather than fear to flourish on our planet.

And this is why you are ready. Ready to live a high-energy inspirational life that is true to your soul life and light, path and purpose.

You know that you are as you are – and it is meant to be for a purpose. You know your purpose is revealed to you step by step through following the guidance of your heart. You trust you are innately and uniquely equipped to carry out your soul purpose.

You know that your unique destiny is yours alone and cannot be missed, forgotten or lost. You know that as you live as yourself, you become your Path and Purpose. You are the Living Expression of your Soul Light!

You are healing the collective unconscious insanity by unplugging from mass beliefs and plugging into the light network of spiritual energies that uplift, inspire and support you in consciously co-creating with the divine.

You ask questions. Always. You search for and discern the inner truth.

You open up in trust of your inner self and Life's guiding hand. You have the patience and trust that come with Love.

You hold steady in the storms of transition currently traversing our planetary consciousness, shining gentle bright love, a fire in the night, penetrating mass fear and offering comfort and reassurance to those in need.

You are aligned with the great forces of consciousness in our universe and know Love flows endlessly through you, know yourself to be this Love.

For you, so many are grateful. Thank you for the work you do, the life you live and the being that you are. It is an honour to live and love this Path into Life with you, dear kindred soul.

With love and infinite blessings to you dear one. Namaste.
